OPINIONS IN U. S. COURT

Number of Interesting Ones Were Handed Down by That Tribunal Yesterday.

A SURGEON IS HURT AT SEA

Was Injured While a Passenger on a British Ship-George E. Fisher in a Case.

The United States Circuit Court of Ap peals convened yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, Circuit Judges Goff and Simonton and District Judge Brawley sitting The court handed down opinions in number of cases argued and submitted at the last term, and thereafter heard ar

Among the opinions handed down is that of Elder Dempster Shipping Company, Limited, vs. Frank A. Pouppirt appellee, on appeal from the District Court of the United States for the Eastern District of Virginia. This is an ac-tion in admiralty, in which the appellee, Frank A. Pouppirt, a veterinarian, sought to recover damages sustained while an employe aboard a British freight steam-er, on which he had sailed in charge of while engaged in this work Pouppir was struck by a beam and seriously injured. He entered an action in admiralty and the District Court found for the plaintiff, awarding him damages to the jured. He entered an action in admirally and the District Court found for the plaintiff, awarding him damages to the amount of $12,000.

The steamship company appealed, assigning errors in several points, one of which is as to the jurisdiction of the court. Another held that respondent was guility of negligence, and still others.

WAS HIS OWN ACT.

The appellate court, after reviewing the case, held that the court did have jurisdiction, but that the proximate cause of the injury for which the libellant sought to recover was his own act; that he was in a place where he had no occasion to be; certainly no necessity for being, and that he suffered the consequences of his own act. The decree of the lower court is, therefore, reversed and the case remanded to that court, with instructions to enter a decree dismissing the libel with costs.

The opinion of the court is written by Judge Simonton, who thus states the premise on which the conclusion is based; Unless there was a duty there was no negligence, and unless there was negligence, and unless there was negligence, there can be no recovery.

The other case from the Eastern District of Virginia is another admiralty case, in which Judgo Morris delivers the opinion of the court, medfying the decree. That is the case of the steamer Alabama and the steam tug Curtin, appellants, vs. the barge C. C. McIlwaine, appellee. In this case the barge McIlwaine, in tow of the tug Curtin, was incollision with the steamer, and her owner filed a libel against both the steamer and the tug for damages to the barge, alleging that both were in fault. The District Court so held, and decreed that the damages should be paid in equal parts by the owners of the steamer and the tug for damages to the barge, alleging that both were in fault. The District Court so held, and decreed that the damages should be paid in equal parts by the owners of the steamer and the responsibility for the collision was not at fault, and that he responsibility for the collision was not at fault, and that he respon able and proper.

The decree is accordingly modified, The decree is accordingly modified, with direction to dismiss the libel as against the steamer Alabama and to enter a decree against the steam tug Curtin for the whole damage, with costs.

Another case, in which an opinion is handed down, is that of the Twin City Power Company, appellant, vs. Thomas Barrett, Jr., appellee, from the Circuit Court of the United States for the District of South Carolina. In this case the judgment of the lower court is affirmed and the appeal dismissed. This is of some local interest, by reason of the fact that Mr. George E. Fisher, of New York, is the real appealant. Mr. the fact that Mr. George E. Fisher, or New York, is the real appellant, Mr. Fisher being well known here. The case was a suit in equity. The court dis-misses the various assignments of error and affirms the judgment of the lower court. Mr. Fisher, therefore, loses the Richardson Back.

Colonel John W. Richardson returned yesterday from Marion, where he went to cast his vote for the Democratic nominees in Smyth county. He lays the defeat of McGeorge for the House to local factional troubles inside the party.

Colonel Richardson deeply regrets the defeat of the Democrats in his section, but is undismayed concerning the outlook for his own re-election. The fight between Colonel Richardson and his two opponents will now grow spirited, and all the candidates are hard at work.

Cabman Johnson, however, sticks to his story that Molly White gave him $5 to drive the man and the veiled woman off into Chesterfield county.

The police have learned that there is a woman missing from the Molly White household, and this woman answers the description given by the cabman. It is this woman they are now looking for.

The result of the whole thing, so far as Molly White is concerned, is that she has been sent on to the grand jury on the charge of robbing Hornley, fined $100 and given ninety days for keeping a disorderly house, and a similar penalty for maintaining a house of ill repute.

Mattle Newman, her housekeeper, was also sent on, as an accessory, but the charge against Scott Fountain was dismissed.
